SCIOTO TRAIL

Good roads, like good schools and churches, spell good communities. They build for progress. It is interesting to note that the Scioto Trail north of Circleville is likely to be paved its entire distance with brick. Agitation is also being promulgated for the paving, with brick of course, of the Trail south of this city to Chillicothe and then on, someday, south to Portsmouth. The Circleville Herald also has some good news for its readers. It understands that the State Highway Department might be willing to help brick three sections of streets in the city, on state routes, provided the city bore a portion of the expense. One is the Scioto Trail from the N. & W. R. R. tracks to the Chillicothe line. Another is the Cincinnati-Zanesville road from the present pavement to the corporation line, and the ICH 243 highway. It might be a good idea to have these roads paved about the same time the Scioto Trail south of the city to Rossco is paved with brick. The people want good highways. Some argue they induce citizens to leave their home city and spend money elsewhere. Possibly true, in some sense, but think of the thousands of others in the surrounding territory who don't like to leave long trips and who would then be induced to come to Circleville because they have a fine road—all the way!

A HATCHERY

Incidentally, while we are speaking of improvements, the Pickaway Farmers' and Sportsmen's Protective League might go after a fish hatchery for Circleville and Pickaway-co. Plaquia went after one and got it. The writer knows something about it because he helped as a member of the Plaquia Fish and Game Protective Association at the time. Now Crawford-co. is having a $30,000 hatchery constructed. And here's the tip: The state hopes to increase its number of hatcheries to 20. The 14th is now being built. Circleville ought to get one of the six contemplated. More hatcheries are needed because of the decrease in the state fish supply. D. C. Thompson, chief of the state division of Fish and Game says. All right, get one!

FARM REVOLT

To the fact that agriculture is in the grip of a revolution, similar to that which changed completely the trend of the industry in the 19th century when the machine began to take the place of hand labor, are attributed many of the difficulties now confronting the American farmer by William Harper Dean, manager of the Agricultural Service of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States. What the machine did to industry he said in a recent address. It is now doing to agriculture. Motorized farm equipment, the tractor, the combine, the cotton picker, overhead irrigation, improved roads and higher producing animal units are increasing farm output, while the farm plant is being reduced.

Among the significant changes he points out:

That horses and mules on farms decreased by 3,000,000 in the period of 1920-25. During the same time tractor population increased 260,000.

That farm population has decreased by 3,000,000 in the past eight years.

That the farm plant has been reduced by 13,000,000 acres, but its crop production has increased five per cent and that of animal products 15 per cent.

"There is no question," Mr. Dean said, "but that the level of farm prices will continue to rise. Population is increasing over the entire world and there is an absolute limit to the amount of land from which the world's population will be fed and clothed. But it will require a progressively decreasing number of operators to produce this food and clothing as improved methods displace hand labor. American agriculture is becoming in all its branches one of the most highly specialized industries."

20,000 WOMEN TO HEAR HOOVER IN SPEECH

FACE TO FACE WITH PARTNER IN GREAT WAR

Fair California Voters By Thousands To See Him Accept Nomination.

By MILLY BENNETT
(United Press Correspondent)
PALO ALTO, Calif., Aug. 11.—Twenty thousand California women who worked with Herbert Hoover for Belgian relief during the war will see him face to face for the first time today.

From the high sweeping stands of the Stanford stadium they will view him—the man for whom they worked so unselfishly, so untiringly—hear him accept the Republican nomination for president of the United States.

In the sun-browned, earnest faces of these California women, Hoover will read a message of hope and faith.

Mrs. Parker S. Maddux, president of the Republican Women's Federal of Northern California, declared today:

"Santa Clara county alone is sending 14,000 women to the Hoover notification ceremony."

Not in a body will the women come singly, silently, even as they bannermen, nor songs. They will come singly, silently, open as they came in the war days. From the sunny orchard flats of Santa Clara, from the fog swept coast of Monterey, from the eucalyptus wooded hills of Santa Cruz, from the rust and roar of San Francisco, they will gather to take part in what they consider a great historical event.

The past week has been a whirlwind of work for the women who are pledging their efforts to Hoover. Mrs. J. W. Davey, carrying on organization work in San Jose, thought to interest 3,000 women in attending today's ceremony.

"We have had to keep printing shops working night and day," Mrs. Maddux declared, "for 14,000 women demanded admission cards. The admission cards are Hoover pledge cards."

With no intention of breaking labor laws, Mrs. Maddux tells, the women of northern California have been working 12 hours a day in the interests of the notification meeting in the past week.

The local Hoover-for President Women's organization came into existence four years ago as the Coolidge-Dawes camp. There are 100 units of the group in the northern part of the state.

"We are intensively organized," Mrs. Maddux asserted, "for we have kept the organization alive throughout the years of the Coolidge incumbency."

Women were gathered for today's notification session by a "chain telephone corps." The Republican women telephoned ten friends, asked them to go to the gathering, the invited women, in turn, telephoned ten more.

Maternal Grandfather of Gene Tunney's Fiancee Born Here

Circleville has a claim on Gene Tunney's fiancee, the 21-year-old heiress, Miss Mary Josephine Lauder, of Greenwich, Conn.

Her maternal grandfather, George Rowland, was born in this city and left Pickaway-co. about three score years ago, and has since visited here several times.

Miss Lauder's grandfather, Dr. James Rowland, occupied the pulpit of the Presbyterian church from 1844 to 1854. He died in this city during the erection of the present church on E. Mound-st. His remains were buried beneath the tower. A tablet was erected to his memory, and this is in the doorway leading to the auditorium.

The Rowland family came here 75 years ago, and there are even some people living here today who remember them well. It is reported the Rowlands visited here during the Centennial celebration of the church, but this is a mistake, others say.

"Polly," as Mary Josephine was nicknamed, was considerable of a problem at the age of sixteen. She was sent to a boarding school in the East and later attended the Lenox school and the Finch School for Girls of New York and Versailles. Mrs. Jean Rowland Mengert, formerly of London, Madison-co., wife of Herbert R. Mengert, Columbus correspondent of the Cincinnati Enquirer, is related to Miss Lauder. She is tall and dark, a striking brunette compared to Tunney, who is fair. She is an Episcopalian. He is a Catholic. Miss Lauder is 21 years of age. She first met Tunney when she was 16. Tunney is 30 years of age.

GANGSTER SLAIN BY BOOTLEGGER IN YOUNGSTOWN

Widely Known "Bad Man" Killed When Attempting
To Settle Grudge.

YOUNGSTOWN, O., Aug. 11.—Tony Caputo, 29-year-old gangster, and called Youngstown's most widely known bad man, was killed early today by John Preston, a youthful bootlegger racketeer, when Caputo called at Preston's room to settle a score. Preston was wounded in the leg and is now under police guard at St. Elizabeth's hospital.

Preston's story is that Caputo, who was known as a good shot with both hands, called on him and after an argument drew his two revolvers. Preston wrested one gun away from him and their automatics were soon spitting fire. Two bullets hit Caputo in the head, killing him instantly, and two found their mark in his right wrist. Preston says he fired in self defense.

Caputo took a ride in the sunnier direction police and his enemies have tried several times to send him. At least once a year for the past five years Caputo's sturdy frame has turned aside lead bullets. He has been wounded three times. Once a policeman shot him, once a young girl store proprietor shot him when he kicked her screen, and a hidden enemy got him once also. Caputo recovered each time.

and Woman Shoot and Kill Selves.

TOLEDO, O., Aug. 11.—Mrs. Sophie Neubert, 27, and Wallace Stickels, 34, a world war veteran, shot and killed themselves here today in what police described as the fulfillment of a suicide pact. The bodies were found huddled together on the basement stairs of a house under construction. The couple had crawled through a window to their rendezvous of death.

The bodies were identified by relatives of Stickels, who, with police, and the aid of newspaper clippings, pieced together events leading up to the double tragedy. Stickels, a pipe fitter, came here two years ago from St. Louis where he had been divorced by his wife. He became acquainted with Mrs. Neubert but relatives did not suspect an affair between them, they said.

Mrs. Neubert suddenly disappeared last March, leaving her husband and their eight-year-old daughter. The husband later took the child to New York where he filed suit for divorce.

Since Neubert's departure, Mrs. Stickels had been living in seclusion here. She was never seen in Stickels' company. Stickels has been dependent according to relatives, but had never expressed a desire to die.

The bodies were found by Charles Trefflich, a workman.

The American quartet, of Austin Clapp, Walter Laufer, George Kojac and Weissmuller, took the lead from the first starting with a three meters lead, Laufer increasing it to twelve. Kojac gained three more. Weissmuller only swam the first hundred and then coasted along, looking back at his badly beaten foreign competitors.

The Japanese team composed of Yoneyama, Arai, Sata and Takashi, maintained second place throughout the four legs of the relay. The Canadian team was composed of Bourne, Thompson, Ault and Spence.

GANGSTER SLAIN BY BOOTLEGGER IN YOUNGSTOWN

Widely Known "Bad Man"
Killed When Attempting
To Settle Grudge.

YOUNGSTOWN, O., Aug. 11.—Tony Caputo, 29-year-old gangster, and called Youngstown's most widely known bad man, was killed early today by John Preston, a youthful bootlegger racketeer, when Caputo called at Preston's room to settle a score. Preston was wounded in the leg and is now under police guard at St. Elizabeth's hospital.

Preston's story is that Caputo, who was known as a good shot with both hands, called on him and after an argument drew his two revolvers. Preston wrested one gun away from him and their automatics were soon spitting fire. Two bullets hit Caputo in the head, killing him instantly, and two found their mark in his right wrist. Preston says he fired in self defense.

Caputo took a ride in the same direction police and his enemies have tried several times to send him. At least once a year for the past five years Caputo's sturdy frame has turned aside lead bullets. He has been wounded three times. Once a policeman shot him, once a young girl store-proprietor shot him when he kicked her screen, and a hidden enemy got him once also. Caputo recovered each time.

SUICIDE PACT BRINGS DEATH TO OHIO PAIR

Toledo World War Veteran
and Woman Shoot and
Kill Selves.

TOLEDO, O., Aug. 11.—Mrs. Sophie Neubert, 27, and Wallace Stickels, 34, a world war veteran, shot and killed themselves here today in what police described as the fulfillment of a suicide pact. The bodies were found huddled together on the basement stairs of a house under construction. The couple had crawled through a window to their rendezvous of death.

The bodies were identified by relatives of Stickels, who, with police, and the aid of newspaper clippings, pieced together events leading up to the double tragedy.

Stickels, a pipe fitter, came here two years ago from St. Louis where he had been divorced by his wife. He became acquainted with Mrs. Neubert but relatives did not suspect an affair between them, they said.

Mrs. Neubert suddenly disappeared last March, leaving her husband and their eight-year-old daughter. The husband later took the child to New York where he filed suit for divorce.

Since Neubert's departure, Mrs. Neubert had been living in seclusion here. She was never seen in Stickels' company. Stickels has been despondent according to relatives, but had never expressed a desire to die.

The bodies were found by Charles Trefflich, a workman.

NEW DANGERS OF WATER IN FLORIDA NOW

Georgia and South Carolina
Also Hit; Lake Regions
Somewhat Relieved.

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., Aug. 11.—The hurricane swept cities and villages of central Florida's fruit belt were threatened with new dangers of flood today.

Throughout the entire area which was swept Wednesday and Thursday by a tropical hurricane rivers and lakes were reported out of their banks.

Reports from Okeechobee City, 18 miles north of Lake Okeechobee, said that the streets were filled with flood waters which threatened serious damage.

Taylor's creek, in the same region, was reported to have swollen from its normal width of 15 feet to a width in some places of one mile.

The flood danger was expected to be shortlived. The bulk of the high water was being drained steadily today into the everglades to the south. Seminoles on the eastern fringe of the great swamp reported new high levels in water courses there.

The town of St. Cloud on Lake Tohopekaliga in Osceola county was in part under water. Lake Kissimmee was swollen.

Roads from Fort Pierce on the east coast into the interior were impassable in some places.

MONTREAL, Que., Aug. 11.—

Tugs attempted today to free the steamer Inverness, one of three ships which went aground during a dense fog near Varennes on the St. Lawrence yesterday.

The other ships, the Aldebaran and the Illingworth, were refloated before night by tugs from Montreal.

The grounding of the ships blocked the channel and the steamers Duchess of Bedford, Alaudia and Athena, with 2,500 passengers for United Kingdom ports, were held here several hours before they could sail.

The Aldebaran proceeded to Rotterdam after minor repairs and the Illingworth, undamaged, continued on her way to Antwerp.

ATLANTA, Ga., Aug. 11.—

A wind and rain storm—remnant of the Florida hurricane—was sweeping back into the Atlantic today, after causing minor damage to property and crops in southern and middle Georgia and eastern South Carolina.

Streams were at flood stage in central Georgia as a result of the heavy rain.

Near August, Ga., the wind reached a high velocity and trees were toppled, cottages damaged and telephone and telegraph lines severed.

Five persons were reported injured when houses were wrecked. At Macon, Ga., the Okmulgee river was at flood stage after a fall of 8.5 inches of rain in 15 hours. Washouts on highways and the central of Georgia railroad were reported.

A sharp wind blew at Charleston and shipping held to the Cooper river basin.

CHICAGO, Aug. 11.—Cooling breezes from the Canadian plains early today had relieved the lake regions, which have been held in a heat wave, to which 29 deaths were attributed, during the past three days.

Twelve deaths in and near Chicago and fifteen in the northwest formed the heaviest toll reported. Lincoln, Neb., reported one death with a temperature of 97.

Dallas, Tex., where the mercury reached 96, listed one death and two prostrations.

YORK, Pa., Aug. 11.—

Heavy winds with yesterday's storm lifted the left fence at the baseball grounds here and carried it fifty feet across a road, dropping it in a corn field.

LANCASTER, Pa., Aug. 11.—Lightning, rain, and hail in a thunderstorm which swept Lancaster county late yesterday caused damage amounting to thousands of dollars, a preliminary estimate showed today.

THE POWER OF AN AMBITION

Many years ago a teen-age, poverty-stricken lad, moved by an ambition for an education, sought aid by an appeal to a livery man who had two superannuated nags considered useless.

The lad made a proposition to the livery man to let him drive these two old nags to an old carriage as a means of transportation, splitting fees.

The boy had made friends by his genial disposition. He had a passion for horses and was known as a clever, young jockey. But there was no future in the business and he was determined to make himself useful, which called for an education.

It was not long before he succeeded in building up a good patrone and one day he offered the owner of the two nags a price for the outfit, which was accepted.

While the horses rested, the boy attended the Topeka public schools. Then he took a course in law and was admitted to the bar at the age of 21.

His name is Charles Curtis, candidate for vice president on the Republican ticket.

Creamed
Comments
On S.S.
Lesson

Creamed comments on the Sunday School Lesson, The Council at Jerusalem, Acts 15:1-11 for Sunday, Aug. 12th.

At the close of a successful missionary journey there arose in the church at Antioch a controversy as to long established rites that were being discarded; the sincerity of both sides made possible a satisfactory settlement by means of a council at Jerusalem consisting of the recognized church leaders.

V. 1. "And certain men came down from Judea and taught the brethren saying, except ye be circumcised after the custom of Moses, ye can not be saved." Circumcision had come to stand for purity, freedom and holiness and from vicious such as found in other religions. There was historical soundness in this view but there was a failure to see that the same ends could be gained by the ways of Christian liberty and brotherhood.

V. 3. "They passed through both Phenicia and Samaria, declaring the conversion of the Gentiles; and they caused great joy unto all the brethren." Paul and Barnabas were selected as representatives of the new program of Christian liberty and on their way to the Jerusalem council they reported the success of the gospel in the first missionary journey, which news was hailed with joy.

One way of testing our religion is to note our emotions when we hear of the success of the gospel.

V. 4. "And when they were come to Jerusalem, they were received of the church and the apostles and the elders, and they rehearsed all things that God had done with them." They touched lightly upon their hardships or their heroism; they made much of divine protection, deliverances from peril, the repentance to followed their preaching and a faithfulness of the new converts.

Vs. 5, 6. "But there rose certain of the sects of the Pharisees who believed, saying, it is needful to circumcise them, and to charge them to keep the law of Moses.
And the apostles and elders came together to consider of this matter. Differences of opinion speedily lead to great schisms unless the men on both sides meet and talk things over fully, frankly; no man is put down who speaks upon a question sincerely; every man who does not speak intelligently, and sincerely will put himself down.

Vs. 7, 8. "Peter rose up and said, brethren ye know that a good while ago God made choice among us, and that by my mouth, the Gentiles should hear the word of the gospel and believe. And God whom knoweth the heart, bare them witness, giving them the Holy Spirit, even as he did unto us." Peter spoke out of his former experience as a pioneer in making Gentile converts who gave every evidence of being genuine since they were honored in that God gave them the Holy Spirit.

Vs. 19, 11. "Now therefore, why make ye trial of God that ye should put a yoke upon the neck of his disciples which neither our fathers nor we are able to bear?
But we believe that we shall be saved through the grace of the Jesus, in like manner as they." Certain rules and regulations are necessary for righteous living but when carried too far, they become a burden. Peter's conclusion is a strong affirmation of the universality of Christian freedom and of the liberty of grace.

The Church Invites You

ROOSEVELT AND THE CHURCH

Roosevelt said, "In this actual world a churchless community, a community where men have abandoned or scoffed at or ignored their religious needs, is a community on the rapid down grade.
I advocate a man's joining the church for the sake of showing his faith by his work."

"Church work and church attendance mean the cultivation of the habit of feeling some responsibility for others."

Discussion Questions on S.S. Lesson

Discussion Questions on the Sunday School Lesson, The Council at Jerusalem, Acts 15:1-11 for Sunday, Aug. 12th.

1. What is Christian liberty?
What are the limitations of Christian liberty?

2. What are the dangers connected with religious controversies?

3. Of what value are conferences in settling disputes?

4. What were the principles that evidently were applied in the council meeting in this lesson?

5. What compromises were made in the settlement of this dispute? How far should compromises enter in the settling of disputes?

6. What are the advantages and the disadvantages of an open forum?

Clericus says, "Controversy heats the blood and intensifies points of opposition, but conferences cool passion and emphasize points of agreement. In all our differences we should strive to come together to consider the matter."

Lesson Prayer, "O God, we thank Thee for freedom in Christ;
help us to acknowledge the limitations of freedom that we may keep within the bounds of Christian liberty and build together a Christian brotherhood."

WHAT MAY BE EXPECTED
OF A SUCCESSFUL SUNDAY SCHOOL SUPERINTENDENT?

The superintendent should be an organizer of forces. To put all to work, the superintendent must do some wise and persistent planning.
He should be a student of the best literature on his work as well as a student of school methods. He should see that the school over which he presides is of the best type and is made interesting, instructive and devotional.—John R. Pepper.

DO YOU BELIEVE IN DUES
AS A MEANS OF FINANCING
THE CLASS?

This is not the ideal method but it seems to be the most practical.
The majority of classes finance their organizations by means of dues. The idea is to get each one to contribute something, what he desires rather than some stated amount. The Duplex Envelope system sometimes solves the problem for Sunday school classes.

Mr. Julius Rosenwald, Chicago philanthropist is to invest $20-will be the second largest gift of its kind surpassed only by the Paul Dunbar apartments in New York City, gift of Rockefeller.

THE BETTER WAY—

INFLUENCE OF GOSPEL

The influence of the social gospel on the industrial conditions of the country is revealed in an appeal signed by forty Christian leaders of the southern states looking toward better living conditions and better wages for the workers in the mill villages of the south. This appeal is as follows:

"We believe that all of the conditions can be steadily improved, and we therefore urge you, as present leaders holding positions of responsibility and vantage to take the initiative in their improvement. We believe that if you will take the initiative and if there can be the friendly cooperation of employees, employers, churches, educators and officials of the state it will be possible to build in the south, by united effort, in the lifetime of this generation, a greater and more powerful industry, constructed solidly upon good will and cooperation, avoiding the waste and bitterness of industrial conflicts and mitigating the intensity of the class struggle."

THE POWER OF AN AMBITION

Many years ago a teen-age, poverty-stricken lad, moved by an ambition for an education, sought aid by an appeal to a livery man who had two superannuated nags considered useless.

The lad made a proposition to the livery man to let him drive these two old nags to an old carriage as a means of transportation, splitting fees.

The boy had made friends by his genial disposition. He had a passion for horses and was known as a clever, young jockey. But there was no future in the business and he was determined to make himself useful, which called for an education.

It was not long before he succeeded in building up a good patronage and one day he offered the owner of the two nags a price for the outfit, which was accepted.

While the horses rested, the boy attended the Topeka public schools. Then he took a course in law and was admitted to the bar at the age of 21.

His name is Charles Curtis, candidate for vice president on the Republican ticket.

Creamed Comments on S.S. Lesson

Creamed comments on the Sunday School Lesson, the Council at Jerusalem, Acts 15:1-11 for Sunday, Aug. 12th.

At the close of a successful missionary journey there arose in the church at Antioch a controversy as to long established rites that were being discarded; the sincerity of both sides made possible a satisfactory settlement by means of a council at Jerusalem consisting of the recognized church leaders.

V. 1. "And certain men came down from Judea and taught the brethren saying, except ye be circumcised after the custom of Moses, ye can not be saved." Circumcision had come to stand for purity, freedom and holiness and from vileness such as found in other religions. There was historical soundness in this view but there was a failure to see that the same ends could be gained by the ways of Christian liberty and brotherhood.

V. 3. "They passed through both Phenicia and Samaria, declaring the conversion of the Gentiles; and they caused great joy unto all the brethren." Paul and Barnabas were selected as representatives of the new program of Christian liberty and on their way to the Jerusalem council they reported the success of the gospel in the first missionary journey, which news was hailed with joy. One way of testing our religion is to note our emotions when we hear of the success of the gospel.

V. 4. "And when they were come to Jerusalem, they were received of the church and the apostles and the elders, and they rehearsed all things that God had done with them." They touched lightly upon their hardships or their heroism; they made much of divine protection, deliverances from peril, the repentance that followed their preaching and the faithfulness of the new converts.

V. 5, 6. "But there rose certain of the sects of the Pharisees who believed, saying, it is needful to circumcise them, and to charge them to keep the law of Moses. And the apostles and elders came together to consider of this matter." Differences of opinion speedily lead to great schisms unless the men on both sides meet and talk things over fully, frankly; no man is put down who speaks upon a question sincerely; every man who does not speak intelligently and sincerely will not put himself down.

Vs. 7, 8. "Peter rose up and said, brethren ye know that a good while ago God made choice among you, and that by my mouth the Gentiles should hear the word of the gospel and believe. And God whom knoweth the heart, bare them witness, giving them the Holy Spirit, even as he did unto us." Peter spoke out of his former experience as a pioneer in making Gentile converts who gave every evidence of being genuine since they were honored in that God gave them the Holy Spirit.

Vs. 19, 11. "Now therefore, why make ye trial of God that ye should put a yoke upon the neck of his disciples which neither our fathers now we are able to bear? But we believe that we shall be saved through the grace of the Jesus, in like manner as they." Certain rules and regulations are necessary for righteous living but when carried too far, they become a burden. Peter's conclusion is a strong affirmation of the universality of Christian freedom and of the liberty of grace.

Dean W. R. Inge of St. Paul's cathedral, London, is to preach the League of Nations sermon in Geneva cathedral Sept. 2nd.

The Church Invites You

ROOSEVELT AND THE CHURCH

Roosevelt said, "In this actual world a churchless community, a community where men have abandoned or scoffed at or ignored their religious needs, is a community on the rapid down grade. I advocate a man's joining the church for the sake of showing his faith by his work."

"Church work and church attendance mean the cultivation of the habit of feeling some responsibility for others."

Consider the value of the church to yourself and community. Why not accept the invitation and COME TO CHURCH NEXT SUNDAY?

Discussion on Questions S.S. Lesson

Discussion Questions on the Sunday School Lesson, The Council at Jerusalem, Acts 15:1-11 for Sunday, Aug. 12th.

1. What is Christian liberty? What are the limitations of Christian liberty?

2. What are the dangers connected with religious controversies?

3. Of what value are conferences in settling disputes?

4. What were the principles that evidently were applied in the council meeting in this lesson?

5. What compromises were made in the settlement of this dispute? How far should compromises enter in the settling of disputes?

6. What are the advantages and the disadvantages of an open forum?

Clericus says, "Controversy heats the blood and intensifies points of opposition, but conferences cool passion and emphasize points of agreement. In all our differences we should strive to come together to consider the matter."

Lesson Prayer, "O God, we thank Thee for freedom in Christ; help us to acknowledge the limitations of freedom that we may keep within the bounds of Christian liberty and build together a Christian brotherhood."

Church Forum

(Send problems in question form to Church editor; answers will appear in later issue.)

WHAT MAY BE EXPECTED OF A SUCCESSFUL SUNDAY SCHOOL SUPERINTENDENT?

The superintendent should be an organizer of forces. To put all to work, the superintendent must do some wise and persistent planning. He should be a student of the best literature on his work as well as a student of school methods. He should see that the school over which he presides is of the best type and is made interesting, instructive and devotional.—John R. Pepper.

DO YOU BELIEVE IN DUES AS A MEANS OF FINANCING THE CLASS?

This is not the ideal method but it seems to be the most practical. The majority of classes finance their organizations by means of dues. The idea is to get each one to contribute something, what he desires rather than some stated amount. The Duplex Envelope system sometimes solves the problem for Sunday school classes.

Mr. Julius Rosenwald, Chicago philanthropist is to invest $20,000,000 in a well planned group of apartment buildings for negroes to cover an entire block on the south side of Chicago, to be called Michigan Boulevard Gardens. This will be the second largest gift of its kind surpassed only by the Paul Dunbar apartments in New York City, gift of Rockefeller.

YESTERDAY'S HERO: Jack Quinn, veteran American league pitcher, who held Washington to four scattered hits, won a shutout victory, 8 to 0, and enabled the Philadelphia Athletics to keep within four and a half games of the leading New York Yankees.

Lou Gehrig's 20th home run of the year, with Ruth and Gazella on bases, gave the New York Yankees three runs in the third inning and paved the way for their 5 to 2 defeat of the Boston Red Sox.

A ninth inning rally by Cleveland was checked by the Detroit Tigers after five runs had been scored, allowing the Tigers to defeat the Indians, 8 to 2, when the inning opened.

The Chicago White Sox bunched hits in the first and eighth innings to score five runs and defeat the St. Louis Browns, 5 to 3. St. Louis' runs came in one at a time in the fourth, fifth and eighth innings.

St. Louis downed the Pittsburgh Pirates in 12 innings 2 to 1, to maintain their four game lead in the National league. The Cardinals scored in the first, the Pirates in the second and the home plate remained untouched until the winning run was scored, 10 innings later.

Freddy Lindstrom drove in five runs for the New York Giants and the lowly Philadelphia Nationals again bowed in defeat, 8 to 4. Lindstrom hit a home run in the first inning with two men on base, and his single with the bases loaded in the seventh, scored two more men. Terry cleared the bases with a home run on the next play.

Dazzy Vance held Boston's Braves to five hits and the Brooklyn Robins won a game, 5 to 1. Bissnette hit his 19th homer of the year.

SPORTSMATTER

BY FRANK GETTY

Percy Williams, winner of two championships at the Amsterdam Olympiad, is a champion today because all his life he fought for his big chance.

The Canadian schoolboy, in winning both the 100 and 200-meter dashes, accomplished a feat that such great stars as Jarvis, Walker, Kerr, Paddock, Scholz and Abrahams were unable to equal.

Archie Hahn won both sprints at St. Louis in 1904, and Ralph Craig sprinted to a double victory at Stockholm in 1912, but in neither meet was the competition as strong as it was at Amsterdam.

Williams ran to his victories against the finest field of dash men ever assembled at the Olympics. He is truly the "world's fastest human."

Lost on Toss of Coin.
Last year the toss of a coin kept the young sprint star from participating for the Canadian championship. The track classic was held at Toronto, but Williams lacked the funds to make the trip. Undaunted, he worked for a month and finally landed in Toronto on the eve of the trials. In spite of these handicaps, he succeeded in placing second in his heat. At this time it developed that a mistake had been made in the entries and one of the contestants would have to withdraw. A toss of a coin and Williams lost his first chance for a major sprint title.

He returned home only to work harder. At the British Columbia Olympic trials, his efforts were rewarded. He equaled the world's record for the 100-meter run, covering the distance in 10.3 seconds.

Again Williams had difficulty in raising the necessary expense money to enter the final Olympic trials at Hamilton, Ont. At the last minute a local LaCrosse Club started a drive for funds. He was given a check for expenses just in time to reach Hamilton for the trials.

Tunney May Enter Business In Wall-St. After Cupid's Inning

NEW YORK, Aug. 11.—Gene Tunney may take his million dollars and go into Wall street with it.

While no statement has come from the former heavyweight champion on plans for his career after his marriage to the socially-prominent and wealthy Miss Mary Lauder, there were persistent reports today that several Wall Street firms had offered Tunney a job.

One offer was said to have come from the firm of G. M. P. Murphy Co., brokers and financiers. The report lacked confirmation, but it was said Tunney may decide on his business connection before he sails next Thursday for Europe, where he is to make a walking tour with Thornton Wilder, novelist. The marriage will be in the fall.

In marrying Miss Lauder, Tunney is linking his future with an heiress to part of the Carnegie millions and joining a family long prominent in the financial world. Incidentally his name will be recorded in at least one edition of the social register, the next issue of which will record his marriage. Whether his name remains regular.

Wheat opened 3-8 to 3-4c down. Corn was 1-8 to 3-8c lower and oats ranged from 1-8 off to 1-4c up. Provisions were slightly higher.

Wheat closed yesterday at fair gain from the inside figures of the day. The bearish government report was the ruling factor in trading. The Canadian government report will be issued today and is expected to be extremely bearish. It was reported yesterday that Kansas farmers were receiving less than a $1 a bushel for hard winter wheat unless it was of high protein content.

With a record crop forecast, corn met with heavy selling yesterday but at the close the undertone was relatively firm. Farmers complained of excessive heat. New oats arrivals have been surprisingly small and the cash market has held relatively firm. Commission houses have been

FANS LIKELY TO SEE REAL FIGHT AT DEWEY PARK

Fighting Irishmen To Battle For City Title In Six-Round Go.

A real card is on tap Tuesday night when Jimmy Pinnix and Mickey O'Reilly square off for the bantam and featherweight title of the city. Mickey is holder of both the bantam and featherweight titles. He is training hard at Dewey Park while Pinnix goes through his paces at the C. A. C. with Charley Scott who is to oppose a tough boy in Gene Smith of Portsmouth, at the featherweight limit.

O'Reilly and Pinnix box at 120 lbs. and what a fight it ought to be when the Southside Irishman meets the Eastside Irish pride. Both are fast and don't know the word quit. Charley Scott who is aiding Pinnix is doubly anxious to polish off Smith so as to get a return bout with O'Reilly. The two feature bouts are slated for six rounds each.

Three fast four rounds shall also be on tap. The hook which has been used to good advantage in past shows, will be in use, insuring fans a real evening of entertainment. The first bout starts at 8:30 p. m. with admission 50c for adults and 10c for women and children. Fighting John Rooney will referee.

BACKING UP PROGRESS MOVEMENTS

A few people usually do most of the work of pushing communities ahead and getting public work done. But those few people need a lot of backers, many of whom do not do any active work. But their personal interest counts heavily.

People often say that it amounts to nothing to attend some public gathering called to promote some new movement or organization work. But it is almost impossible to run these public affairs, unless such meetings are well attended.

In many cities organizations like the Chamber of Commerce have been partial failures, because the people would not attend the meetings. The slack attendance indicated a lack of public interest that was extremely discouraging. The officers would argue that the people were not supporting their efforts, and they would not feel like putting their time into such labors.

In progressive cities, you find two conditions: First, a good bunch of aggressive people who will hold offices in Chambers of Commerce, Improvement societies, drives for funds for public causes etc. But these folks alone can not do the whole thing. They have to feel the power of the mass behind them.

The people who do nothing but attend such meetings, applauding the speakers, showing a personal interest, such ones help far more than they realize. They give the leading ones courage to go ahead.

Then if in addition they will go out among their friends and talk over the work done, and applaud the efforts made, they are still more valuable. And if also they are willing to contribute money, they are wonderful folks. And if on top of all that, they will serve on committees and hold office, there is no limit to their usefulness, and they become the leading people in their community.

HARRY KITTREDGE'S DEED

In Lowell, Mass., lives a man named Harry Kittredge whom all holdup men would do well to avoid hereafter.

A bandit attacked Kittredge and his wife late one night recently as they returned home after a drive. Instead of submitting, Kittredge grappled with him. The two fought vigorously, until Kittredge got his hands on the bandit's throat. Then he tightened his grip and held on. After a time the bandit's body relaxed and he fell unconscious, Mrs. Kittredge called the police.

When the police arrived the bandit was dead.

If more men showed the spirit and courage displayed by Kittredge, there would be fewer holdups. A bandit is essentially a coward; the average holdup man would give up in fear if he thought he were going to run any real risk. This Lowell citizen who defended himself instead of submitting is to be commended.

VACCINE

Despite the advance in knowledge there are still many people who are deeply opposed to such medical measures as vaccination. Many people feel that inoculation against diphtheria is not only useless, but actually injurious to health.

Such people should glance at statistics recently issued by the New York Health Department. More than 82,000 school children were inoculated against diphtheria in 1927; of this great number, only 42 felt the slightest ill effects, and none of these cases was serious.

The opposition to inoculation and vaccination has no real foundation. There are plenty of old wives' tales about the baneful effect of these preventive remedies, but few attested facts.

WONDER

Now what's beyond the next great turn,
And what lays o'er the hedge,
Why is it that my life must spurn
Things on my window ledge,

The while it chases rainbows fine,
And hoping that some day
The distant treasures will be mine—
Why must my heart thus pray?

I own the common things of life,
I eat three hearty meals
And yet I brook incessant strife,
My body restless feels.

Here in my home possessing things
'Most any man desires,
My daily heart exulting sings—
Tomorrow's reeks with fires.

And restless thus the days slip by,
I grow more of a slave,
I cannot wait my time to die
And jump into a grave.

The discontented moods are great,
They fill you with elation,
And make you love and make you hate
The world men call creation.

Oh, let me live uncertain days,
And then when I have died,
Just say I had eccentric ways
And was dissatisfied.

The commission has also authorized the Jefferson-twp., Jackson-co. school board to issue $40,000 in bonds, the money to be used in the construction of a new school building.

Centerville, Gallia-co., and Hamden village, Vinton-co., also have been authorized by the State commission to issue bonds for new school buildings. The Gallia-co. village is to build a new $40,000 school building, while the school at the Vinton-co. village will cost $22,000.

LIFE

Life is but the rod of time.—Each morn we look upon it with joy. Each night we cut a notch to mark the day that has gone, to come no more. Days come—days go—upon wings of joy and happiness—until un-noticed many years have passed—and the rod is nearly filled with the notches that were days of smiles and tears of joys and sorrows—and with feeble hand we hold the rod aloft and see but little space for more of the fleeting days—at last we have not the power to add another day of record—and weary of the journey we use our burdens for a pillow, lie down to sleep to wake no more—Love not thy life—nor hate—but whilst thou livest

Probably the public will claim that the nation or the state owns the air, and can allow such use as it sees fit, but public sentiment may compel some regard to the right of landowners. Some states may have legislated on this question already, but the rights of the public and individuals seem to call for closer definition.

Love's Ecstasy

by May Christie

WHAT HAS HAPPENED SO FAR.

ALEDA RAY, pretty country girl, working as a stenographer in New York, is in love with Gary Chester, young engineer. She is living at the home of Marise de Rense, night club proprietor. Clive Mortimer, friend of Marise, secretly establishes Goldie, Marise's young sister, in business, the purpose of which is blackmail. The Countess Dellamance, wealthy niece of Alela's employer, W. B. Lingard, is in love with Gary Chester. Alela receives a gift of gloves and a letter—could they be from Gary?

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY.

CHAPTER XXVI.
MARISE DE RENSE wanted love. She was thirty-six years old, and desperately lonely.

This, despite the fact that she lived in a bustling house in the theatrical quarter of New York with her sister and her "guests"—(Marise always called the roomers "guests," it sounded more refined, she thought)—where there was a constant liveliness, a continual coming and going.

On this warm evening in the beginning of June, she was busy in the kitchen, getting supper ready. She was making a potato salad, as Goldie, her young sister, liked it, with beans and onions in it, and celery and hard-boiled eggs and beets and carrots.

Goldie was "pernickety." It seemed to Marise—who was inclined to plumpness—that Goldie ate no more than a sparrow. And frequently, if she didn't fancy Marise's dishes, she would not touch anything.

Marise was worried about Goldie. The little sister was secretive. Marise didn't know half her friends. And for some of those she did know, she had no great relish.

She had high ambitions for Goldie. Wanted her to have everything in life that she herself had missed.

But Goldie was headstrong and headstrong. One could not teach her anything. She was not tractable.

Marise had hoped the influence of Alela—who was sweet, refined and sensible—might help to improve the pert young flapper.

Yet Goldie, if anything, was pettier still when Alela was about!

"Maybe she's jealous of Alela," because "I'm right down fond of the girl!" Marise had surmised.

On this early Summer evening, as she worked in her boy basement kitchen, her mind reverted continually to this morning's incident, when Alela had sprung a bomb upon her unexpectedly, with the name of Lingard!

"I made a damned fool of myself! What on earth will the girl think of me, fainting away like that?" A return of the old dizziness made Marise sit down suddenly in the rocker near the stove. Her heart was thudding oddly. She felt queer and weak.

"Oh, just the heat!" She fanned herself with her bungalow apron. She would deny that the very thought of her long-ago sweetheart still had potent power!

She leaned back in the rocker for a moment and closed her eyes. Her fancy—despite her effort to the contrary—kept back over the intervening years.

Springtime! The woods full of trilling bird-calls, and trailing arbutus, and speedwell, and celandine! Clear water flowing and dimpling over the green weeds! A rustic bridge—two lovers—sap rising in the trees—love welling in two human hearts!

She had been only two-and-twenty, and William B. Lingard was asking her to marry him.

There had been violets in her hands that he had plucked for her. How tightly she had gripped them, in a sort of ecstasy! Now, down the long trail of fourteen years, it seemed as though she could still smell the crushed sweetness of those flowers!

Ah! happy days!

Ah! hopes that never reached fruition!

Wretched misunderstanding, cruel unbelief, and pride had raised their hydra heads to separate the lovers. William B. Lingard—though he had loved her—had walked off in anger and in obstinacy.

Copyright, 1928, King Feature Syndicate, Inc.

For years Marise had told herself she hated this man who had caused havoc to her happiness. Long since, with other loves and other interests come into her busy, albeit chequered life, she had relegated William B. Lingard to the dusty attic which is part of every human mind.

And now—only this morning—his name had suddenly been sprung upon her by her guest, Alela Ray, who was acting as private secretary to him!

She—Marise—had only to walk into the offices on some pretext for a word with Alela, and the chances are that she and her long-ago sweetheart would come face to face!

She hadn't the courage. No use denying it! She had loved him so! Her heart ached now with loneliness. . . . and with regret.

"Goodness! How you startled me!" Marise jumped up from her rocker by the stove as Alela entered the kitchen.

Alela's eyes were shining. There was a pinkness and a radiance in her pretty, fresh young face. She held a letter in her hand. And she was smiling.

"Oh, Marise dear! Feeling better? I've worried about you all day!"

"I'm fit as a fiddle! Just had a fit of laziness, and was resting a moment before the ravenous wolves troop in for their supper." Marise bustled about the kitchen, getting out the plates. "How's everything, Alela? You look as though someone had left you a million dollars, huh? What's in that letter of yours?"

The young girl blushed. "Oh, it's just a—word of thanks—for a sort of a service I did—forwarded on from my old home—"

Marise turned around. Don't kid me, child! I know that look in the eyes! It's a love letter! Come on, confess!"

"It isn't." Alela laughed to hide her blushes. It's quite a formal sort of a letter—the funny bit is I've seen the young man—twice—since he wrote this. But—it sort of gives me a new—but on his character—it makes me how charming he is!"

Old Circleville Newspaper Tells Interesting Things

A copy of The Herald and Union of Circleville, dated Dec. 19, 1853, was brought to The Herald office Friday by Mack Parrett.

Mr. Parrett, who is still in business here, had one of the big advertisements in the Herald and Union. Other advertisers were T. Miller & Brothers, H. E. Bock, N. Nonamaker, D. B. Wagner & Co., Baldwin Becher, Evans & Krimmel, F. M. Shulze, E. B. Rife, James Y. Duncan, James Duffy, Messerly & Biehart, Harris & Albaugh, Todd & Miller, Isaac Levy's, Marshall P. Davis, D. W. Hollenbeck, D. Peirce, C. S. Martin, L. N. Olds & Sons, W. & S. Jacobson & Co., May & Co.

I. N. Abernethy, still in active practice of law here, was mentioned in the news columns as an attorney in a receivership.

There seems to have been stiff competition in the oyster business in those days. A Beach ran an advertisement saying:

"Read This Sure and You Will be Greatly Benefitted Thereby. I will sell a better oyster, and fuller cans, at a price as low as other houses sell an inferior article. I mean just what I say." The other individuals maintained their oysters were "the best."

"John L. King advertised that he had just received ten barrels of sweet cider, "direct from Tiffin, which he would sell by the gallon or small measure."

The news items included the following items:

"S. H. Ruggles has slaughtered

11,730 hogs up to this date."

"Dr. S. D. Turney, having bought the property recently occupied by Captain Henry R. Beinding as a saloon and eating house, is having the same fitted up for his medical office."

"Howard E. Jones of Geneva, N. Y., is home for the holiday vacation."

"The Masonic lodge of this city has purchased the C. A. King property on Court-st., adjoining Van Hedy's block. We understand that a business block will be erected on the lot, with suitable lodges rooms in the third story."

"The map of Circleville, showing the appearance of the town in 1836, drawn by G. F. Wittich, is a work of such merit as makes it proper that special notice should be taken of it. Its general topographical accuracy is conceded by all who knew the town at that time. Mr. Wittich deserves the Edna, aged 16 months, daughter important and valuable work."

Deaths recorded in the issue were James E. Colwell, aged 63; Mrs. Elizabeth Wright, aged 40; thanks of our citizens for this of Mr. and Mrs. E. M. Olds.

Alfred Williams was publisher of the Herald and Union. In a notice on the first page he said: "Terms, $2 per year in advance. This paper is published strictly on the cash basis. Therefore, a failure to renew within one month after the time paid for will be considered a wish to discontinue, and the publisher will govern himself accordingly."

Mrs. Wealtha Vieth Abernethy (Wife of Judge I. N. Abernethy.)

Democratic Candidate for CLERK OF COURTS

This is to remind you that the best assurance of your support, is your vote for me at the POLLS. I am asking the support of all voters. Women are being increasingly called for Jury service, and they are in error in refusing to vote thinking thereby to escape Jury service.

REMEMBER, it was the men who gave the women the right to vote and if they can vote, why not hold office, if the office sought is a suitable one. Men are asking and expect to receive the support of women voters. When one representing mothers, wives, sisters and daughters asks their support for an office purely clerical, which can be acceptably filled by a woman, should they not reciprocate? Since women were given universal suffrage, I have consistently voted the Democratic Ticket. We have WOMEN CLERK OF COURTS in Ross, Fayette, Fairfield and other counties, and I am submitting my candidacy for that office in Pickaway. I am not unaccustomed to work, commencing at the age of 16; later appointed Court Stenographer by a Democratic Judge, I was retained by a Republican Judge, serving seven years, as efficiency took precedence over politics. For 25 years I have been intimately associated with the responsibilities of a law office, and the Clerk of Court's office always filled by a layman, will not find me inexperienced, I feel I can serve you efficiently and well. A woman cannot campaign like a man, and I find it impossible to see every voter. My resources are limited—owning a small farm, proving a liability rather than an asset. I have helped in my way, both city and county, and leave the result with you as fellow workers and fellow voters. I urge attendance at the Polls August 14th—it is both your privilege and your duty. Respectfully submitted,

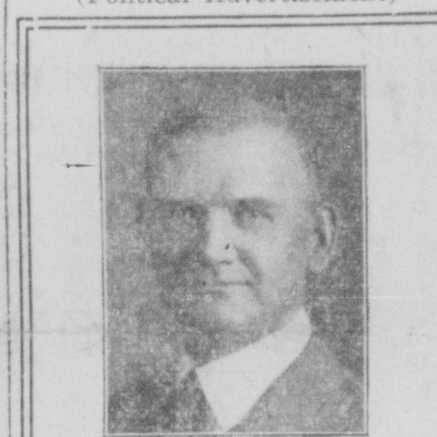

(MRS.) WEALTHA VIETH ABERNETHY.

Knowing Mrs. Abernethy to be competent for the office sought, I endorse her candidacy. I am confident she will add strength to the Ticket at the November election.
Yours for Democracy,
I. N. Abernethy.

THE WOOD—THRUSH

If you're not taking advantage of these August days when the harvest is starting to look brown and sear, when the intense heat of July is giving away to weather that seems more pleasant, when summer is bidding you a fond farewell and with the smell of Fall is in the air, then you're not getting the most out of life. The birds cheer us along the way, too, and we found a little of the enthusiasm of the season in a poem dedicated to the wood-thrush and written by Ollie Barnes:

From the shadowy depths of a hidden dell,
Far out where the sylvan spirits dwell,
Comes a voice that weaves a wondrous spell

Sweet as a thrill of a love new born.

Soft as the dew of a summer's morn.

Sad as the thought of a hope forlorn.

Is the call of this sylvan child.

BACKING UP PROGRESS

A few people usually do most of the work of pushing communities ahead and getting public work done. But those few people need a lot of backers, many of whom do not do any active work. But their personal interest counts heavily.

People often say that it amounts to nothing to attend some public gathering—called to promote some new movement or organization work. But it is almost impossible to run these public affairs, unless such meetings are well attended.

In many cities organizations like the Chamber of Commerce have been partial failures, because the people would not attend the meetings. The slack attendance indicated a lack of public interest that was extremely discouraging. The officers would argue that the people were not supporting their efforts, and they would not feel like putting their time into such labors.

In progressive cities, you find two conditions: First, a good bunch of aggressive people who will hold offices in Chambers of Commerce, Improvement societies, drives for funds for public causes etc. But these folks alone can not do the whole thing. They have to feel the power of the mass behind them.

The people who do nothing but attend such meetings, applauding the speakers, showing a personal interest, such ones help far more than they realize. They give the leading ones courage to go ahead.

Then if, in addition, they will go out among their friends and talk over the work done and applaud the efforts made, they are still more valuable. And if also they are willing to contribute money, they are wonderful folks. And if on top of all that, they will serve on committees and hold office, there is no limit to their usefulness, and they become the leading people in their community.

HARRY KITTREDGE'S DEED
In Lowell, Mass., lives a man named Harry Kittredge whom all holdup men would do well to avoid hereafter.

A bandit attacked Kittredge and his wife late one night recently as they returned home after a drive. Instead of submitting, Kittredge grappled with him. The two fought vigorously, until Kittredge got his hands on the bandit's throat. Then he tightened his grip and held on. After a time the bandit's body relaxed and he fell unconscious. Mrs. Kittredge called the police.

When the police arrived the bandit was dead.

If more men showed the spirit and courage displayed by Kittredge, there would be fewer holdups. A bandit is essentially a coward; the average holdup man would give up in fear if he thought he was going to run any real risk. This Lowell citizen who defended himself instead of submitting is to be commended.

VACCINE

Despite the advance in knowledge there are still many people who are deeply opposed to such medical measures as vaccination. Many people feel that inoculation against diphtheria is not only useless, but actually injurious to health.

Such people should glance at statistics recently issued by the New York Health Department. More than 82,000 school children were inoculated against diphtheria in 1927; of this great number, only 42 felt the slightest ill effects, and none of these cases was serious.

The opposition to inoculation and vaccination has no real foundation. There are plenty of old wives' tales about the baneful effect of these preventive remedies, but few attested facts.

WONDER

Now what's beyond the next great turn,
And what lays o'er the hedge,
Why is it that my life must spurn
Things on my window ledge,

The while it chases rainbows fine,
And hoping that some day
The distant treasures will be mine—
Why must my heart thus pray?

I own the common things of life,
I eat three hearty meals
And yet I brook incessant strife,
My body restless feels.

Here in my home possessing things
Most any man desires,
My daily heart exulting sings—
Tomorrow's reeks with fires.

And restless thus the days slip by,
I grow more of a slave,
I cannot wait my time to die
And jump into a grave.

The discontented moods are great,
They fill you with elation,
And make you love and make you hate
The world men call creation.

Oh, let me live uncertain days,
And then when I have died,
Just say I had eccentric ways
And was dissatisfied.

HUNTINGTON-TWP. IN ROSS-CO. TO VOTE ON SCHOOL

State Tax Commission Authorizes Balloting on New Consolidated Building.

COLUMBUS, O., Aug. 10.—The State tax commission has authorized the Huntington-twp., Ross-co. board of education to place before the voters at the coming election a $41,000 bond issue for building a new consolidated school.

When a bond issue amounting to four percent or more of the township tax duplicate is required to be raised for any purpose it is necessary to get the approval of the State tax commission.

The commission has also authorized the Jefferson-twp., Jackson-co. school board to issue $40,000 in bonds, the money to be used in the construction of a new school building.

Centerville, Gallia-co., and Hamden village, Vinton-co., also have been authorized by the State commission to issue bonds for new school buildings. The Gallia-co. village is to build a new $40,000 school building, while the school at the Vinton-co. village will cost $22,000.

LIFE

Life is but the rod of time—
Each morn we look upon it with joy.
Each night we cut a notch to mark the day that has gone, to come no more. Days come—days go—upon wings of joy and happiness—until un-noticed many years have passed—and the rod is nearly filled with the notches that were days of smiles and tears of joys and sorrows—and with feeble hand we hold the rod aloft and see but little space for more of the fleeting days—at last we have not the power to add another day of record—and weary of the journey we use our burdens for a pillow, lie down to sleep to wake no more—Love not thy life—nor hate—but whilst thou livest state own the air? Probably the public will claim that the nation or the state owns the air, and can allow such use as it sees fit, but public sentiment may compel some regard to the right of landowners. Some states may have legislated on this question already, but the rights of the public and individuals seem to call for closer definition.

Love's Ecstasy by May Christie

WHAT HAS HAPPENED SO FAR.

ALEDA RAY, pretty country girl, working as a stenographer in New York, is in love with Gary Chester, young engineer. She is living at the home of Marise de Rense, night club proprietor. Clive Mortimer, friend of Marise, secretly establishes Goldie, Marise's young sister, in business, the purpose of which is blackmail. The Countess Dellamancie, wealthy niece of Alela's employer, W. B. Lingard, is in love with Gary Chester. Alela receives a gift of gloves and a letter—could they be from Gary?

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY.

CHAPTER XXVI.
MARISE DE RENSE wanted love.

She was thirty-six years old, and desperately lonely. This, despite the fact that she lived in a bustling house in the theatrical quarter of New York with her sister and her "guests" (Marise always called the roomers "guests," it sounded more refined, she thought)—where there was a constant liveliness, a continual coming and going.

On this warm evening in the beginning of June, she was busy in the kitchen, getting supper ready. She was making a potato salad, as Goldie, her young sister, liked it, with beans and onions in it, and celery and hard-boiled eggs and beets and carrots.

Goldie was "pernickety." It seemed to Marise—who was inclined to plumpness—that Goldie ate no more than a sparrow. And frequently, if she didn't fancy Marise's dishes, she would not touch anything.

Marise was worried about Goldie. The little sister was secretive. Marise didn't know half her friends. And for some of those she did know, she had no great relish.

She had high ambitions for Goldie. Wanted her to have everything in life that she herself had missed.

But Goldie was headstrong and headstrong. One could not teach her anything. She was not tractable.

Marise had hoped the influence of Alela—who was sweet, refined and sensible—might help to improve the pert young flapper.

Yet Goldie, if anything, was pertier still when Alela was about! "Maybe she's jealous of Alela," because "I'm right down fond of the girl," Marise had surmised.

On this early summer evening, as she worked in her boy's basement kitchen, her mind reverted continually to this morning's incident, when Alela had sprung a bomb upon her unexpectedly, with the name of Lingard!

"I made a damned fool of myself! What on earth with the girl think of me, fainting away like that?" A return of the old dizziness made Marise sit down suddenly in the rocker near the stove. Her heart was thudding oddly. She felt queer and weak.

Old Circleville Newspaper Tells Interesting Things

A copy of The Herald and Union of Circleville, dated Dec. 19, 1883, was brought to The Herald office Friday by Mack Parrett.

Mr. Parrett, who is still in business here, had one of the big advertisements in the Herald and Union. Other advertisers were T. Miller & Brothers, H. E. Bock, N. Nonemaker, D. B. Wagner & Co., Baldwin Becher, Evans & Krimmel, F. M. Shulze, E. B. Rife, James Y. Duncan, James Duffy, Messerly & Biehart, Harris & Albaugh, Todd & Miller, Isaac Levy's, Marshall P. Davis, D. W. Hollenbeck, D. Perce, C. S. Martin, L. N. Olds & Sons, W. & S. Jacobson & Co., May & Co.

I. N. Aernethy, still in active practice of law here, was mentioned in the news columns as an attorney in a receivership.

There seems to have been stiff competition in the oyster business in those days. A Beach ran an advertisement saying:

"Read This Sure and You Will be Greatly Benefitted Thereby. I will sell a better oyster, and fuller cans, at a price as low as other houses sell an inferior article. I mean just what I say." The other individuals maintained their oysters were "the best."

"John L. King advertised that he had just received ten barrels of sweet cider, 'direct from Tiffin, which he would sell by the gallon or small measure."

The news items included the following items:

"S. H. Ruggles has slaughtered

11,730 hogs up to this date."

"Dr. S. D. Tunney, having bought the property recently occupied by Captain Henry R. Beeding as a saloon and eating house, is having the same fitted up for his medical office."

"Howard E. Jones of Geneva, N. Y., is home for the holiday vacation."

"The Masonic lodge of this city has purchased the C. A. King property on Court-st., adjoining Van Hedy's block. We understand that a business block will be erected on the lot, with suitable lodge rooms in the third story."

"The map of Circleville, showing the appearance of the town in 1838, drawn by G. F. Wittich, as a work of special merit as makes it proper than special notice should be taken of it. Its general topographical accuracy is conceded by all who knew the town at that time. Mr. Wittich deserves the Edna, aged 16 months, daughter important and valuable work."

Deaths recorded in the issue were James E. Colwell, aged 63; Mrs. Elizabeth Wright, aged 40; thanks of our citizens for this of Mr. and Mrs. E. M. Olds.

Alfred Williams was publisher of the Herald and Union. In a notice on the first page he said "Terms, $2 per year in advance. This paper is published strictly on the cash basis. Therefore, a failure to renew within one month after the time paid for will be considered a wish to discontinue, and the publisher will govern himself accordingly."

Mrs. Wealtha Vieth Abernethy (Wife of Judge J. N. Abernethy.)
Democratic Candidate for CLERK OF COURTS
This is to remind you that the best assurance of your support, is your vote for me at the POLLS. I am asking the support of all voters. Women are being increasingly called for Jury service, and they are in error in refusing to vote thinking thereby to escape Jury service.

REMEMBER, it was the men who gave the women the right to vote, and if they can vote, why not hold office. If the office sought is a suitable one. Men are asking and expect to receive the support of women voters. When one representing mothers, wives, sisters and daughters asks their support for an office purely clerical, which can be acceptably filled by a woman, should they not reciprocate? Since women were given universal suffrage, I have consistently voted the Democratic Ticket. We have WOMEN CLERK OF COURTS in Ross, Fayette, Fairfield and other counties, and I am submitting my candidacy for that office in Pickaway. I am not unaccustomed to work, commencing at the age of 16; later appointed Court Stenographer by a Democratic Judge, I was retained by a Republican Judge, serving seven years, as efficiency took precedence over politics. For 23 years I have been intimately associated with the responsibilities of a law office, and the Clerk of Court's office always filled by a layman, will not find me inexperienced. I feel I can serve you efficiently and well. A woman cannot campaign like a man, and I find it impossible to see every voter. My resources are limited—owning a small farm, proving a liability rather than an asset. I have helped in my way, both city and county, and leave the result with you as fellow workers and fellow voters. I urge attendance at the Polls August 14th—it is both your privilege and your duty. Respectfully submitted, (MRS.) WEALTHA VIETH ABERNETHY.

Knowing Mrs. Abernethy to be competent for the office sought, I endorse her candidacy. I am confident she will add strength to the Ticket at the November election. Yours for Democracy, J. N. Abernethy.

BEWARE OF LAST MINUTE CIRCULARS

There is being circulated an unfair and misleading minute circular against Ed D. Ricketts, Republican candidate for Congress in this district, for which on one signed as required by law. Intelligent voters of this district will not be deceived by campaign methods of this type. Coming in the last hours of the campaign Mr. Ricketts given no opportunity to answer it.

Edwin D. Ricketts has been TRIED and MADE GOOD in Congress. The people know him and have faith in him. He has made a clean campaign for this nomination.

Some people have the idea that the name of the candidate for Congress is placed upon the National ticket, of which the candidate for President the head. Such is not the case. Under the law of Ohio the Presidential candidate and electors are on one ballot, and nominated as the National ticket, and the candidates for Governor, State Offices, United States Senator, Congressmen and County Offices are placed upon another ballot, and nominated as the State ticket, of which the candidate for Governor is the head.

In 1924, the last time Mr. Ricketts was a candidate for Congress, Harry L. Davis was the Republican candidate for Governor and head of the ticket upon which Mr. Ricketts name appeared. Davis lost the District by 13,010 votes.

President Coolidge received a plurality of 7,000,000 votes in 1924. Thousands of Democratic voters throughout the United States, dissatisfied with the Democrat candidate for President, voted for Coolidge and the vote for Coolidge this District in 1924 is no exception. It is exceptional, as is not a fair or proper basis for an analysis of the vote.

Edwin D. Ricketts is stronger in this District today than he has ever been, and is conceded to be the strongest candidate the Republicans of this District can nominate. He has been elected before, and nominated he will be elected again; and if elected he is able to and will deliver the goods.

VOTE FOR EDWIN D. RICKETTS FOR THE NOMINATION FOR CONGRESS NEXT TUESDAY.

THE WOOD-THRUSH

If you're not taking advantage of these August days when the harvest is starting to look brown and sear, when the intense heat of July is giving away to weather that seems more pleasant, when summer is bidding you a fond farewell and with the smell of fall is in the air, then you're not getting the most out of life. The birds cheer us along the way, too, and we found a little of the enthusiasm of the season in a poem dedicated to the wood-thrush and written by Ollie Barnes:

From the shadowy depths of a hidden dell,
Far out where the sylvan spirits dwell,
Comes a voice that weaves a wondrous spell

O're the heart of the woodland

UNUSUAL CHARITY IN WILL
JOLIET, Ill., Aug. 11.—When the public schools of Joliet are open for the fall term, free meals will be furnished for indigent pupils whose parents are too poor to furnish nourishing lunches for their children, or in the case of undernourished youngsters whose parents have not been supplying them with proper food.

This service is made possible through the unique will of the late Augustus J. Belz, who left an estate estimated at $45,000, and directed that the income be utilized in perpetuity for the feeding of school children who otherwise might not receive proper or adequate food.

SPORTSMATTER

BY FRANK GETTY

Percy Williams, winner of two championships at the Amsterdam Olympiad, is a champion today because all his life he fought for his big chance.

The Canadian schoolboy, in winning both the 100 and 200-meter dashes, accomplished a feat that such great stars as Jarvis, Walker, Kerr, Paddock, Scholz and Abrahams were unable to equal.

Archie Hahn won both sprints at St. Louis in 1904, and Ralph Craig sprinted to a double victory at Stockholm in 1912, but in neither meet was the competition as strong as it was at Amsterdam.

Williams ran to his victories against the finest field of dash men ever assembled at the Olympics. He is truly the "world's fastest human."

Lost on Toss of Coin.

Last year the toss of a coin kept the young sprint star from participating for the Canadian championship. The track classic was held at Toronto, but Williams lacked the funds to make the trip.

Undaunted, he worked for a month and finally landed in Toronto on the eve of the trials. In spite of these handicaps, he succeeded in placing second in his heat. At this time it developed that a mistake had been made in the entries and one of the contestants would have to withdraw.

A toss of a coin and Williams lost his first chance for a major sprint title.

He returned home only to work harder. At the British Columbia Olympic trials, his efforts were rewarded. He equalled the world's record for the 100-meter run, covering the distance in 10 3-5 seconds.

Again Williams had difficulty in raising the necessary expense money to enter the final Olympic trials at Hamilton, Ont. At the last minute a local LaCrosse Club started a drive for funds. He was given a check for expenses just in time to reach Hamilton for the trials.

Tunney May Enter Business In Wall-St. After Cupid's Inning

NEW YORK, Aug. 11.—Gene Tunney may take his million dollars and go into Wall street with it.

While no statement has come from the former heavyweight champion on plans for his career after his marriage to the social-prominent and wealthy Miss Mary Lauder, there were persistent reports today that several Wall Street firms had offered Tunney a job.

One offer was said to have come from the firm of G. M. P. Murphy Co., brokers and financiers. The report lacked confirmation, but it was said Tunney may decide on his business connection before he sails next Thursday for Europe, where he is to make a walking tour with Thornton Wilder, novelist. The marriage will be in the fall.

In marrying Miss Lauder, Tunney is linking his future with an heiress to part of the Carnegie millions and joining a family long prominent in the financial world. Incidentally his name will be recorded in at least one edition of the social register, the next issue of which will record his marriage. Whether his name remains regular.

Wheat opened 3-8 to 3-4c down. Corn was 1-8 to 3-8c lower and oats ranged from 1-8 off to 1-4c up. Provisions were slightly higher.

Wheat closed yesterday at fair gain from the inside figures of the day. The bearish government report was the ruling factor in trading. The Canadian government report will be issued today and is expected to be extremely bearish.

It was reported yesterday that Kansas farmers were receiving less than a $1 a bushel for hard winter wheat unless it was of high protein content.

With a record crop forecast, corn met with heavy selling yesterday but at the close the undertone was relatively firm. Farmers complained of excessive heat.

New oats arrivals have been surprisingly small and the cash market has held relatively firm. Commission houses have been

FANS LIKELY TO SEE REAL FIGHT AT DEWEY PARK

Fighting Irishmen To Battle For City Title In Six-Round Go.

A real card is on tap Tuesday night when Jimmy Pinnix and Mickey O'Reilly square off for the bantam and featherweight title of the city. Mickey is holder of both the bantam and featherweight titles. He is training hard at Dewey Park while Pinnix goes through his paces at the C. A. C. with Charley Scott who is to oppose a tough boy in Gene Smith of Portsmouth, at the featherweight limit.

O'Reilly and Pinnix box at 120 lbs. and what a fight it ought to be when the Southside Irishman meets the Eastside Irish pride. Both are fast and don't know the word quit. Charley Scott who is aiding Pinnix is doubly anxious to polish off Smith so as to get a return bout with O'Reilly. The two feature bouts are slated for six rounds each.

Three fast four rounds shall also be on tap. The hook which has been used to good advantage in past shows, will be in use, insuring fans a real evening of entertainment. The first bout starts at 8:30 p. m. with admission 50c for adults and 10c for women and children. Fighting John Rooney will referee.

To The Voters of Pickaway County

Every voter is entitled to know the fitness of every candidate.

In seeking the office of County Surveyor I wish to submit to you the following facts regarding myself:

I came from that pioneer stock of Myers and Adams who helped settle and develop the central part of Ohio, my grandfather Adams having assisted in building the old Ohio canal.

I have been a resident of Pickaway County a number of years, have never run for office before; a Democrat all my life and if elected promise to favor and work for the best interest of the taxpayers and people of Pickaway County at all times.

The duties and responsibilities of the County Surveyor have been greatly increased in the past few years, necessitating special qualifications. I therefore submit to you a brief outline of my record as a Civil Engineer and Surveyor.

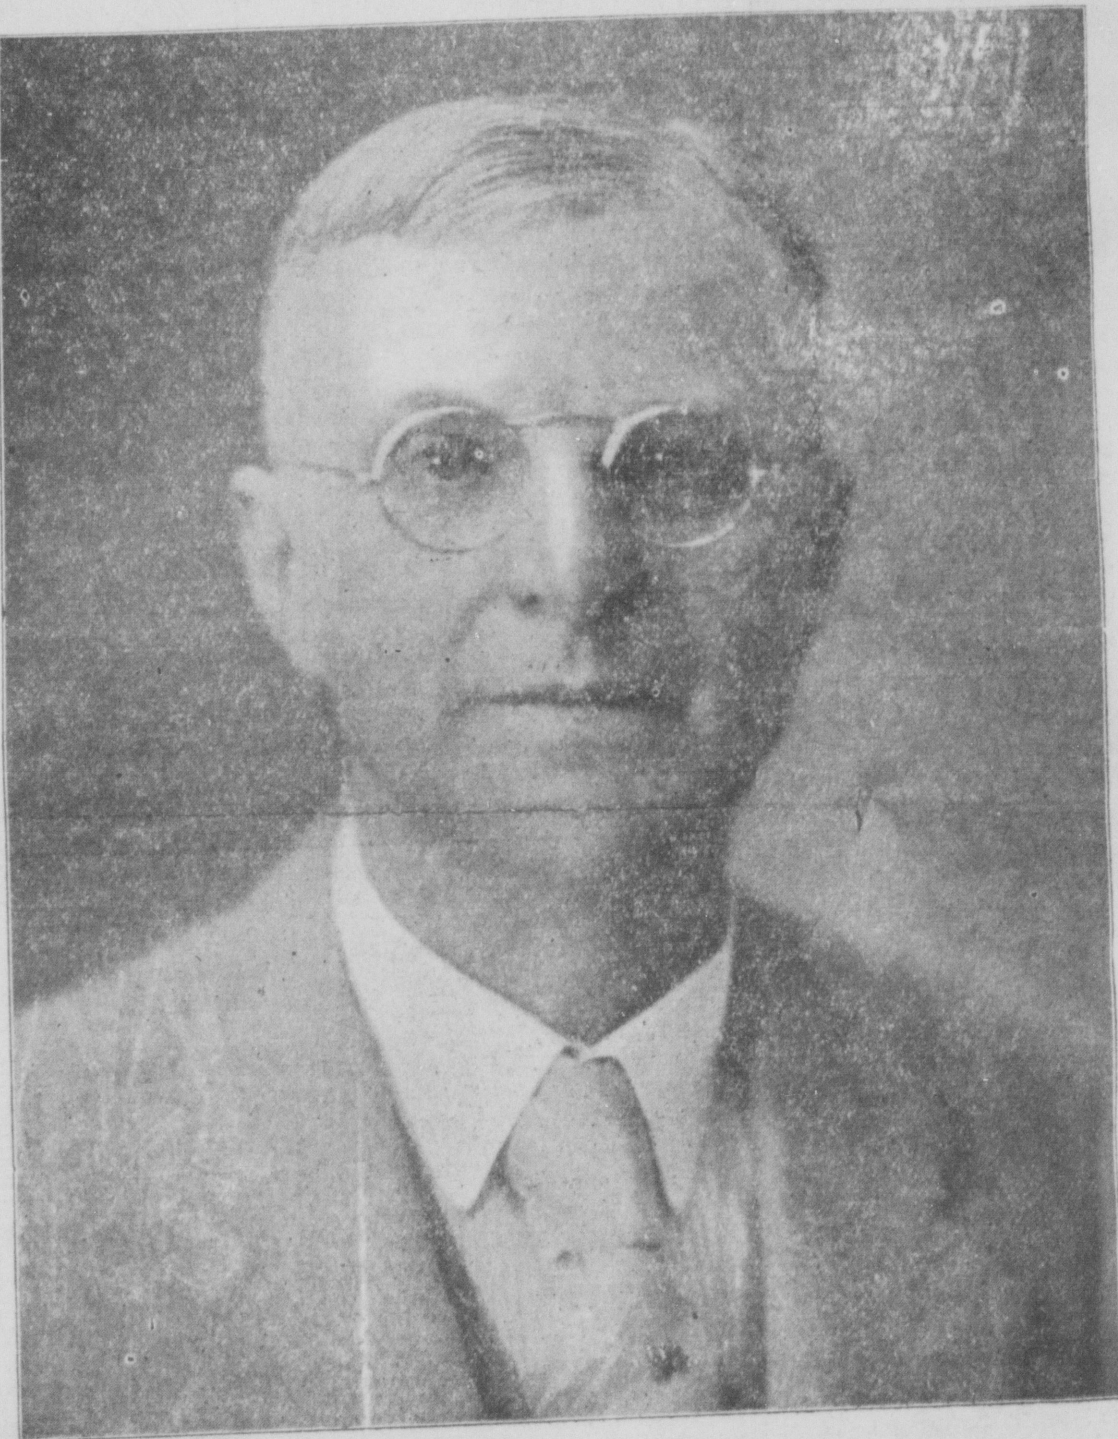

- (1) I am 44 years old and married.
- (2) Graduate of the Ohio Northern University in Civil Engineering with the degree of Civil Engineer.
- (3) More than 25 years experience as a Civil Engineer and Surveyor, 10 years of which has been public road and general county work.

At the close of the World War I was given an honorable discharge at Ft. Benj. Harrison, Indianapolis, Ind., where I was stationed at that time.

I sincerely solicit your support at the primary election, Tuesday, Aug. 14, 1928.

RAY Z. MYERS

Circleville, Ohio.

CHARLES GERHARDT

Candidate for the Office of Common Pleas Judge
PICKAWAY COUNTY

Born in Pickaway County, March 28, 1870. Educated at O. N. U. and O. S. U., Prosecuting Attorney, Pickaway County, 1903-1909. Has not been a candidate for office for 23 years. Has had 32 years experience as trial lawyer. Seeks the office for the honor and opportunity for judicial service, and not the emoluments thereof.

"Has no kin folks at the bar. Will be wholly free to serve as Judge without embarrassment because of kinship with any lawyer at the bar."

Will work and do all within his power to expedite the business of the Court to the end that cases may be brought to issue, heard and decided without undue and vexatious delays and unnecessary costs, and that justice may be done without fear of, or favor to any person, or persons whomsoever.

Respectfully solicits the vote of every Democratic voter at the ensuing primaries and same will be thankfully appreciated.
